

Complex Litigation Services: Does Your Law Firm Tick All the Boxes?

When you have complex litigation, there are a lot of services you likely will need. From a sophisticated trial lawyer, to qualified complex litigation associates, to discovery surge capacity and nationwide reach—in a larger case these can be critical to success. For a long time there was one primary option in the marketplace—large law firms. Those firms come with a legacy business model that drives high rates, often well into the $1000s per hour, even for attorneys who are not lead counsel. Can a law firm provide complex litigation services at a price point substantially lower than Big Law rates? At Hilgers Graben, the answer is “yes.” See below for how we check all of the boxes you would get at a large law firm—and some you wouldn’t—all delivered through a model that provides a lower hourly rate.
